

convalescing. If you do, I'll kill you. I was taken down sick in a small, yellowed room that only had one physician to its back, and I was sick, sicker'n a horse. I was in a private place, and I was paid whether I was in Arkansas, Oregon, or extreme danger. About the first thing I remember, I woke up and saw the doctor. He was watching me like a hawk on my pulse; and I didn't much more than take in the situation when he told me to run out my tongue, and he looked at my jaw, reached, holding my head open so long he made me feel like I'd been closed his eyes, and murmured: 'Thank heaven! He's better. He is now slow-ly recovering from his attack of the old brandy!' He poured out pretty good snifter, and told me to take about four 'tucks every day, while I was in bed. He said I was a good fellow. I didn't last more than two days, and I was one of them cost $2.50. Well, I lay there slowly convalescing and getting my strength back for a few days, and then I was taken down with the flu.

Virginia, has been fully restored to its former beauty by its present Baltimore owners. The estate is beautifully situated, fronting entirely on the Midland railroad, and contains 1,065 acres of the highest quality of soil. The old mansion, one of the finest in the South, is 160 feet long, with an average width of 45 feet. It is two stories above its basement, which is entirely above ground, and is in an exceptional state of preservation for such an old building undergoing for four months a large and expensive restoration. The architect and mechanic have been engaged in its restoration. — N. Y. Tribune.

— "Don't say 'entry,' Charles," said Mrs. Culture to her son; " 'hall' is much more elegant. You say that the young man just finished his friends by speaking of 'Al. Shangbressy's' 'hall' into office."

without the acquaintance of at least two thirds of these—and so we might go on with details of lives that are burdened with non-essentials to the exclusion of all that is best and worthiest in life. For, as we have said, their name is Legion everywhere, but we know, by bitter experience, that protest against this kind of folly is like railing at the wind for we will every one be ready with the excuse "I can't help it. I would be glad enough to get a little rest, but

The eighteenth annual convention of the Kentucky State Sunday School union will meet at Bowling Green, August 21, 22 and 23, 1883.

JOHN SMITHS are so scarce in Southern Kentucky that Owensboro hasn't one in the town. A few of him ought to go hence instantly, for there's a large opening for him.

LIAR TOWNSEND, christened George Alfred, remembers his route to Lexington of some six or seven years ago, when he lied about everybody, dead or alive, that he could think of, and offered a lame excuse for his dishonesty, by saying, that he wanted to pay his way, but the Blue Wing' saloon.

Grass people forced their attentions on him, in revenge for which he lied about them. He did not know how to appreciate hospitality, or gentlemanly treatment. He went to Lexington with a letter in his pocket from the then editor of the Argus, and used it to introduce himself. That is how the attentions were forced on him. The Lexington people, knowing him, could not recommend as a gentleman, received and treated him as such, but he did not understand that kind of treatment. He never will. He is too dirty and mean to have a soul above a despicable lie. But Gath remembers his visit. So do the Lexingtonians. Gath will not repeat it.—[Louisville Argus.]

It is very difficult to characterize the Republican party in Kentucky. Its only object is to get office. It has no State pride; it has no State policy. Its leaders are all claimants for public patronage. Scite is perpetual, personal abuse of one another is constant. We have, or had, the Hanlan faction and the Bristow faction; these, as their leaders retired, divided and subdivided into the Murray and anti-Murray, the Evans, and the anti-Evans, the Goodloe and the Swope, the Crumback and the Swope. Such elements were never before joined in any party under heaven.—[C. J.]

JUDG HADLEY gave to the assembled multitude at Hamilton, on Saturday night, his interpretation of the Democratic tariff resolution. It has been the general opinion that the resolution sustains the principle of protection, and that suppression is correct, according to Judge Hadley. He stated the Democratic doctrine thus: "A tariff for revenue, with incidental resolution, which shall not foster or encourage monopolies, and shall not unsettle or disturb labor in fields to which it has been invited by past legislation of the country."

R. B. HATES delivered an address at Woodstock on the Fourth, and not a newspaper in all this broad land published it. Had Grant spoken his celebrated little twelve line "Thank you for a great cordial greeting—this is indeed a great country" &c., it would have been telegraphed all over the world, yet every intelligent reader could have spoken the little piece in advance.

In New York Thursday it was currently reported that the present raid against trade dollars had been inspired by a syndicate that has undertaken a speculation in them, based upon the belief that the government will rescind them at par. It is estimated that there are not over $5,000,000 of the trade dollars in the country.

An exchange sarcastically remarks: "Only a few more coils of toll and the farmer will hang his hoe in a sapping and throw his plow in a fence corner. The crop will be worked and the tools will not be needed until next season. Then a new mortgage can be gotten to buy tools to take the place of those rotten by tools neglected."

JOHN E. CLARK, a native of Covington, Ky., died yesterday in Atlantic City. He journeyed thither in Louisville, and during the war rendered great service to the Government as a special operator in the field and in New York, winning the thanks of President Lincoln and Mr. Stanton.

The country postmaster who has formed the habit of reading other people's newspapers had better swear off. The Postmaster General has issued an order which fits such cases and affords a fine opportunity for disappointed office-seekers to capture the souls of unwary F. M.'s.

THERE is undoubtedly a great deal of gall in the complaints against Commissioner Evans. It is the man who is "bounced" that raised the hue and cry against the "bouncer," and it is invariably the discharged official who designates his successor as "Evans's pet."

It is the opinion of John G. Carlisle that the prospects of the Democrats have not been as good since 1856 as they are the present year. He says the election in Ohio this fall will show that the revolution is not going backward.

A WASHINGTON jury is a wonderful affair. A man may stand up in court, a la Redell, and solemnly inform the court that he is guilty and that jury will say he is "not guilty." One or the other lies and it is not Redell.

THE Republican of Nicholas county met in convention at the Court-house Monday, and offered the nomination of State Senator to Judge Ross and John A. Campbell, both of whom declined the acceptance.

It was not for the Commissioner of Pensions and the $15,000,000 he asks this month, the outstanding three-and-a-half percent bonds could be, every one called in and redeemed.

A dog is now to figure as a witness in a North Carolina divorce case. This suggests a possible improvement in the jury system, if the dogs could be prevailed on to serve.

A Slight Encampment.

Somewhat of a sensation was created yesterday afternoon at the sale of Clark's furniture. Mrs. Charles Brent bid in a parlor furniture and commenced bidding one rack to match it. Mr. Joseph Milward bid higher and she bid above him. After one or two more bids Brent went up to Mr. Milward and told him that she would not run the article up on him, as she wanted to match her parlor set. Mr. Milward replied in his usual brusque way that that didn't make any difference. Mrs. Brent overbidding the conversation said to Mr. Milward that she should not talk that way to a lady and on receiving a retort, slapped Mr. Milward on the side of the head, knocking his spectacles off, and somewhat stunning him. Friends at the side of the room, thinking his son was close by Mr. Brent bidding in the article, several dollars above what any one had offered.—[Lexington Transcript.]

E. A. Benson, Louisville, says: "Brown's Iron Bitters was recommended by my physician for sleeplessness; I cheerfully recommend it."

The bay gelding Sorghum, by Bourbon Blue, dam May-ris, has been purchased by W. S. St. Clair, Salesman, at Ft. W. Trotter, of Columbus, Ind., for $1,000, it is said.

St. Clair is reported in good form this season. He is in the hands of John Turner, who lately gave him a trial at Point Brown in 22½, the last quarter in thirty-three seconds, and 2½ gal.

A Kentucky boy of seventeen, who was married nearly a year ago, has just become a father. This is a course of precocious paterity, to be sure, but the Blue River State must not think it beats the record. Adam was a papa before he was two years old.

STRONG FACTS!

A great many people are asking what particular troubles BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is good for.

It will cure Heart Disease, Paralysis, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Consumption, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all similar diseases.

Its wonderful curative power is simply because it purifies and enriches the blood, thus beginning at the foundation, and by building up the system, drives out all disease.

A Lady Cured of Rheumatism.

Richmond, Md., May 7, 1883. My health was much shattered by Rheumatism, when I commenced taking Brown's Iron Bitters, and I scarcely had strength enough to attend to my daily household duties. I am now using the bottle, and I am regaining strength, and I can do as usual. I have used two bottles and never found anything that gave me so much relief.

J. K. MORRIS.

Kidney Disease Cured.

Christiansburg, Va., 18th. Suffering from kidney disease, from which I could get no relief, I used Brown's Iron Bitters, and I am cured completely. A child of mine, suffering from kidney disease, had no appetite and did not seem to me to eat at all. I gave him two bottles with the happiest results.

J. K. MORRIS.

Heart Disease.

Vine St., Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 2, 1882. After trying different physicians, and many remedies for heart disease, I was advised to try Brown's Iron Bitters. I have used two bottles and never found anything that gave me so much relief.

Mr. J. MORRIS.

For the peculiar troubles to which ladies are subject, Brown's IRON BITTERS is invaluable. Try it.

Be sure and get the Genuine.

TAKE WARNING! HOT WEATHER.

IS DOWN UPON US WITH A SWOOP. SWELTERING HUMANITY consults the thermometer and the poor, perspiring mortal greets his prototype with the time-worn interrogation, "Hot enough for you?" and fondly smiles to himself as he reflects that he has succeeded in making another unhappy victim to "Old Sol's" rays somewhat warmer and more uncomfortable.

NOW, THEREFORE, instead of consulting the thermometer, come once and interview US, and feel yourself a new man by donning some of our light, cool summer garments, and also REMEMBER THAT OUR LOW SCALE OF PRICES STILL HOLDS GOOD. OUR GREAT MARK DOWN SALE STILL CONTINUES. The world revolves on its axis, a sensible, careful buyers come to headquarters for a good article at a low price.

FARM FOR SALE GARTH FUND.

PRIVATELY.

AS AGENT FOR THE WILLMOT here I will offer for sale private the farm of 165 acres, situated near Hutchison Station, half way between Paris and Lexington, on the K. C. Railroad, with the branch of the Bethlehem and Hopeville Turnpike running in front of the farm. About 60 acres under cultivation, and balance in grass. Good brick residence in good repair. Good water, orchard, ice-house, barns and all necessary outbuildings. This farm is a very valuable farm—perhaps as good land as there is in the county or bluegrass region, and is a rare chance for purchasers desiring a small farm.
